University of Florida College of Medicine – Jacksonville

Chair of Radiology

The University of Florida’s College of Medicine – Jacksonville (UF COM-J) invites applications and nominations for the position of Chair, Department of Radiology.

The Department of Radiology offers residents of Northeast Florida and Southeast Georgia the resources of an academic medical center and a patient-friendly environment. Radiology services are provided at UF Health Jacksonville hospital, a private, not-for-profit hospital affiliated with the UF Health Science Center campuses in Jacksonville and Gainesville. Currently comprised of board-certified radiologists (many with formal subspecialty training), radiology fellows, radiology residents, imaging scientists and employees (technologists, nurses, administrative personnel and clerical assistants), the department is rapidly growing and maturing into a full-service, subspecialized group to meet the equally expanding and developing clinical and academic needs of the other departments at UF Health Jacksonville. Radiology services are also provided at the Emerson Medical Plaza, a unique University of Florida and UF Health Jacksonville multiservice healthcare center, and at UF Health North, the only state-of-the-art outpatient medical complex in North Jacksonville. Completion of a 92-bed inpatient hospital wing is expected for mid-2017. Once completed, UF Health North will be a full-service hospital capable of meeting the health care needs of North Jacksonville, the region’s fastest growing area.

The Department of Radiology offers graduate medical education training in our ACGME-accredited Diagnostic Radiology Residency Program and Vascular Interventional Radiology Fellowship Program, in addition to a non-standard Breast Imaging and Intervention Fellowship Program. The department also offers a four-week clinical radiology elective clerkship course for fourth-year medical students. Imaging-based research is incorporated into the training of residents, fellows and faculty.

The Radiology Chair will join a strong leadership team that has set its sights on advancing the national profile of UF Health. The population of the area, in conjunction with the strong statewide reputation of UF Health, provides a great opportunity for clinical growth.

The University of Florida College of Medicine-Jacksonville is the largest of the three UF colleges - medicine, nursing and pharmacy - located on the approximately 110-acre UF Health Jacksonville campus. The college’s 16 clinical science departments house more than 400 faculty members and 300 residents and fellows. The college offers 32 accredited graduate medical education programs. In addition to graduate medical education, clinical rotations in all the major disciplines are provided for students from the UF College of Medicine in Gainesville. Third-year medical students enrolled at UF spend about 25 percent of their training at the Jacksonville campus, gaining valuable experience in an urban setting.

Reporting to the Dean of the College of Medicine - Jacksonville, the chair is responsible for the overall administrative, academic, and clinical outcomes of the department. UF seeks an accomplished academician and clinician with an M.D. from an accredited school, current ABR board certification, and have a national reputation for clinical, educational and scholarly activities appropriate for appointment to the rank of Professor or Associate Professor in either a clinical or tenure-track position. Candidates must possess significant leadership experience, such as a section or division chief, vice chair or similar role, with demonstrated fiscal and managerial responsibility. It is important for the new Chair to possess a vision to ensure that the Department grows in rank and reputation. The ideal candidate will be able to grow the department’s clinical program in concert with the expansion of UF Health Jacksonville. The candidate should have national recognition and be actively involved in professional societies and physician organizations.
