Francine is not only a graduate of Emory University School of Radiologic Technology but additionally holds training as a real estate broker as well as other multiple leadership training courses.

“I believe my goal is to coordinate, communicate and facilitate an excellent connection between our patients, staff, physicians and multi-disciplinary team in a caring, professional atmosphere.”~ Francine Murray, R.T. (R) (M)
This is the last newsletter of the year and I’m at a loss for words, as hard as that is for most of you to believe. In lieu of using one of my old columns I’d like to recap some of the issues that I covered throughout the year. We welcomed six new faculty members to our department. We introduced five fantastic first year residents that joined an already stellar group. We wrote about the installation of the new Avanto MRI and Hologic Mammography equipment.

We boasted about the fact that we are the only experts in tomosynthesis in North Florida and talked about the teamwork necessary for the installation of the electronic medical record. If one looks back over the year we certainly have a lot to be proud of. While we should always be looking forward do not forget to reflect on the past to see how far we’ve come. Thank you for all of your hard work and efforts in making our department a success.

At Shands Jacksonville we expect all employees to consistently demonstrate four CORE BEHAVIORS:

1) Customer Focus: to understand and satisfy customer needs. Customers include patients and their families, guests, medical staff, and co-workers.

2) Teamwork: to work cooperatively with others to achieve agreed upon goals.

3) Solution-Orientation: to identify and act on opportunities to make things better in a workplace where change is ongoing.

4) Developing Self and Others: To actively expand knowledge and skills to thrive professionally and contribute to the success of the organization.

The new year is right around the corner and as always we have lots of exciting challenges.

There has been much energy spent on the Radiant build and testing, very soon the training will begin.

I want to thank each of you for your hard work and dedication to serving our customers.

Wishing you a happy and safe holiday season.
Hand Hygiene

Infection Control in the hospital setting refers to policies and procedures that are put into place to minimize the spreading of infections from human to human contact, infected surfaces, airborne transmission, or droplet transmission. The Radiology department has its very own infection control policy (#IC-02-027), which encompasses the hospital standard precautions and infection control policies. The number one way to prevent the spread of germs from patient to patient or caregiver to patient is hand hygiene.

Hand-washing is easy to do and can help prevent up to 40% of hospital acquired infections. When soap isn’t readily available, the alcohol-based foam hand sanitizer is extremely effective in killing hospital germs. In addition to standard precautions, more information on the proper attire for caring for isolation patients can be found in the hospital policy Isolation Precaution (#IC-01-001).

The Rita Tournament 2012

The 7th Annual Champions for Charity golf tournament for the RITA (Research Is The Answer) Foundation took place on the 22nd of October at San Jose Country Club and was quite the success again this year. Thanks to the RITA committee, UF office of development as well as all the volunteers from the department of Radiology for all of your hard work. There were 18 foursomes this year who joined us to tee up on the green in addition to other non-playing corporate donors. The tournament proceeds exceeded $100,000 again this year, bringing all of those funds right back to the department of Radiology here at Shands hospital for Women’s Imaging. Thanks again, go out to some of our loyal corporate sponsors such as Lexus of Jacksonville, Morrison and Crothall, Iron Mountain, Perry McCall, Jax Greyhound racing, and Bank of America just to name a few.

A special thank you for all those who donated food and beverage items for the party cart raffle item at this years’ tournament, your donations were very much appreciated on behalf of the department of Radiology!

November
Employee of the Month:

Jeanne Cecere, R.T.,(R)(MR) MRI, Emerson Imaging Center

Jeannie always sets an example in demonstrating concern for patients. Most recently Jeannie stayed 1 ½ hours after her shift was over to wait with a patient for public transportation. This patient was not even one of Jeannie's patients...She noticed her on the way to her car, a patient in a wheelchair was sitting alone under the awning in front of the building. Jeannie asked her if she was waiting for someone. Once the patient said she was waiting for transportation, Jeannie took it upon herself to call JTA to troubleshoot, and then wait with her.

December
Employee of the Month:

Victoria Ferguson, R.T. (R) Fluoroscopy, Clinical Center

Victoria was instrumental in assisting the Radiologist with making the necessary barium substitution. She shared her ideas which were used during the barium shortage so that exams could be performed.

Also, Victoria is appreciated for scheduling a weekend swallow study. She was very proactive in confirming this procedure via e-mail, days before the Saturday 8:30am appointment; as it is more difficult to schedule fluoroscopy studies on the weekend, due to such a small staff of technologist and radiologists.

Victoria was told “It is always a pleasure working with you. Thank you. You are always so accommodating and treat our patients with the utmost respect and care!”

New Employees
Please welcome our new employees to the department:

Jennifer Harper, RN Interventional Radiology
Mikhail Voyevodskiy, RT Diagnostic Lillian Ritz, RT Diagnostic
Patricia Dombroski, RT Quality Improvement Coordinator
Whitney Villanueva, RT Interventional Radiology
Shamika Walker, Financial Representative
Theresa Rose, Financial Representative

A First for Shands Jacksonville

Believe it or not, there was a time in radiology where nurses were not part of the Interventional Radiology team. For many years now nursing has played a vital role in patient care, but the supervisor of this area has traditionally been a registered technologist.

Please join us in congratulating Erin Jurgens, RN whose compassion, clinical expertise, and leadership skills will aid in creating a team environment where patient centered care will continue to be the focus. Erin provides support for a group of registered technologist, registered nurses, and practitioners.

Erin graduated nursing school in 2004 from Florida State College at Jacksonville (FSCJ); and began her career as a nurse in the Emergency Room, where she worked as a staff nurse for 4 years. Erin left the ER to work in the GI Lab at Baptist Medical Center Downtown, where she worked about 1 year. She then moved to Shands-Jacksonville, Special Procedures (Interventional Radiology (IR)) as a staff RN, and have been with IR for 4 years this January. Erin worked her way up to charge nurse after 1 year, and was promoted to Assistant Nurse Manager in June 2012. She now looks forward to taking on the new role of Supervisor for IR and appreciates the opportunity!

Patient Safety Tip of the Month: Distraction Free Zone

When you have contact with a patient, whether it is on the phone scheduling, at the front desk registering or performing the exam, create a distraction free zone.

Distractions cause employees to make mistakes and can make the customer feel unimportant.
The UF & Shands Community Giving Campaign 2012

The annual giving campaign took place this year in the month of October and did very well considering it was shortened with a few less events as not to impact heavily in conjunction with another EPIC roll out November 1st. This year there were many winners and there was still a very respectable amount raised for United Way and Community Health Charities.

Thank you to all who not only gave this year but who participated in the fundraisers again this year your support is very much appreciated!

Relax! Easy Ways to Reduce Holiday Stress

The holiday season is supposed to be joyful and merry — and that can be stressful. The holidays can bring some extra stress — but there are ways to manage that stress. Here are a few tips to help you relax and enjoy the holidays.

- Create a game plan. A little time spent organizing can be a big time-saver later. Make a list of what you need to buy and set a realistic deadline for buying the items. Try to shop ahead of time, before things are picked over and you're under pressure. If you'll be cooking, plan your menu. Think whether some items could be prepared ahead and frozen or refrigerated. Having guests? Ask them to bring a dish to cut down on your work.

- Make a budget and stick to it. Money is one of the major stressors during the holidays. Don't dig yourself into a hole by overspending. A thoughtful gift doesn't have to be expensive. If money is tight, suggest a family gift exchange with an accepted spending limit.

- Accept reality. Guests may arrive late. Your mother may get on your nerves. The turkey may be dry. Real life isn't a holiday special. Don't expect perfect decorations, a perfect meal or perfect people. Relax, go with the flow and enjoy what you have.

- Beware of unhealthy stress relievers. Holiday stress causes some people to fall into bad habits such as smoking, drinking or eating too much. Think about any unhealthy habits you're prone to and think about better ways to handle the stress. For example, if you've quit smoking, talk with another family member who doesn't smoke to give you support if tobacco is around.

- Create new traditions. Stressed out by the usual festivities? Try something different. Instead of cooking a huge meal on your own, make it a potluck. Ask adults to bring gag gifts or have a "white elephant" or used book gift exchange. Attend a local holiday concert, walk the neighborhood to look at holiday lights or go sledding. Looking to bring the true meaning of the holidays in to perspective? Try volunteering. You can include your children in volunteer activities, too.

- Make time for your health. In the holiday rush, don't let your well-being fall by the wayside. Try to stay on your normal sleep schedule and get regular exercise. If you can't find a 30-minute chunk of time for exercise, break it up into three 10-minute sessions spread through the day. Be sure to talk with your doctor if you're increasing your activity level.

- Give yourself a break. In the midst of doing things for others, it's easy to forget to take care of ourselves. If you feel stress building up, get away for a few minutes. Find a quiet corner and do some deep breathing, listen to calming music or just sit. Or throw on a coat and slip outside for a walk.

- Be proactive. Think about what has been most stressful for you this holiday season. Then make proactive plans for what you will do differently for the next holiday season.

- Enjoy! The holidays are supposed to be a time of joy and togetherness. In the flurry of the holidays, we sometimes forget what we're celebrating. Remember to savor the time with people you love.
