

Associate Director for Education and Research

Department of Urology

Job description:

The Associate Director for Educational and Research will coordinate the urology residency and advanced urology fellowship programs in the Department of Urology and maintain compliance with general and program ACGME and GME requirements. In addition, S/he will foster academic growth of faculty, resident and fellows within the department through support for scholarly activities including research grants preparation, generation of clinical trial protocols and manuscript publications. The position will allow for faculty appointment in the College of Medicine, Jacksonville, for suitably qualified applicants. S/he will be strongly encouraged to perform independent research in concert with the Department and Institutional goals.

This is a full time position with direct reporting responsibility to the Chair, Department of Urology, University of Florida, Jacksonville.

Minimum qualifications:

An Ed.D, M.D. or Ph.D in education or science is required. Educational or scientific research/grant writing experience is required and a record of successful research funding is a plus. The successful candidate will demonstrate aptitude or experience for administration, compliance and program coordination. Academic appointment commensurate with qualifications and experience.
